Social Work & Society Journal and Magazine for Social Work & Social Policy

Social Work & Society (SW&S) is an international network of social scientists and political activists in the fields of Social Work and Social Policy. The SW&S-Network is accountable for publishing the SW&S

Online-Only Journal (SocWork) and Magazine (SocMag).

Social Work & Society is dedicated to critical analysis of the relationship between social work and social services, civil society, the state, and economic forces. It provides a forum in which conventional views can be challenged, theories about the status and mission of Social Work in Society can be developed and ways for social work to act politically and responsibly can be identified. SW&S aims to engage in truly international debates by including discussants from countries all over the world. In doing so, it is committed to constructing discursive relationships between research, theory, education, policy, and practice. It aims at widening the scholarly and professional discourse to critical, user-accessible debates on current developments concerning the broad field of Social Work and Society in all parts of the world.

The SW&S-Journal is a peer-reviewed journal published two times a year. The SW&S-Journal is an open access publication that is available free of charge and a member of the Digital Peer Publishing Initiative (www.dipp.nrw.de). The SW&S-Journal consists of sections for Articles, Research Notes, Book Reviews, Essays, Historical Portraits, and the SW&S-Glossary.

The SW&S-Magazine establishes a political and socially critical information platform for International News in the realm of all professional fields of social work, social services, and social movement. It offers a broad presentation of News, Social Reports, Country Notes, and Comments referring to contemporary and controversial debates.
